Terry Zeller. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 426 pages. Dimensions: 8.9in. x 5.9in. x 1.0in. William S. Trout (1909-1980) lived all of his seventy years in his native Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, where he taught in the public schools and later at a local college, cared for his mother until her death at age 91, and wrote over 750 poems, none of which he sought to publish. In this first biography of the teacher-poet, Terry Zeller, a former student and friend, has created a sensitive and insightful exploration of the life and verse of this reclusive and secretive man based on analysis and interpretation of interviews with friends, colleagues, and former students, and on the poems and scant documentary evidence (some fifty letters, lecture notes, scrapbooks, and the notes and comments he wrote in the margins of the books in his library) left by this modest, self-effacing man who made a concerted effort to guard his private life. It has been the authors intention to bring Trouts poetry to the attention of a wider audience, to place him within the context of Anglo-American poetry, and to recognize his contribution as a Middle Generation American poet along with his contemporaries Randall Jarrell, Delmore Schwartz, Theodore Roethke, Winfield Townley Scott, Richard Eberhart, and John Berryman. Zellers thematic and interdisciplinary approach in this cultural and intellectual biography includes 126 of Trouts poems placed within the context of literary history and his life in ways that reveal the complex interaction between the deeply introspective poets personal history and sense of place and his creative work. An appendix containing an additional 26 poems makes this volume the most comprehensive cross-section of Trouts poetry available to the public. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg,OR, La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
